Chapter 1 - Imperfection - \(The Past\) I = Conflicts \(Part 1\)

Hi everyone, this is Reckyz Rose, SGR, Star Gang Rockstarz, Star Legend. This is a true video about who I am as a person.

I want to make this video because I want to show the world who I am. The only way I can be truthful and show what it really means to be freedom, love and peace is if I show you what my life is and my life is like a story for a reason. Because I want to explain what truth is. I want to explain the facts of change from conflict to change to non -conflict which basically means being able to find freedom, love and peace in your hearts and souls and minds. And before I make this very brave, courageous video, I first went to state that I'm doing this because I want humanity, the animals and the universe to be a better place. And the only way that it can be a better place is if I be completely 100 % myself and be completely honest with who I am as a person and show the truth of what it means to be from conflict, find a change and be free from conflict which means no more conflict. And this video will change everything because it explains exactly how I am the way I am today.

It shows the complete 100 % truth of who I am and for many years I thought I would never ever do this because I was too afraid, I was too scared to show who I really was but this is the essence of the true reality of my life and in order for me to inspire humanity, animals and the universe I need to now be 100 % of who I am at all times and that means giving people the truth without the fear of judgement or the fear of an image or a perception or the fear of what people might think and it takes a lot of courage to do something like this it takes a lot of bravery but the time is now for revolution the time is now for people to really understand what love is and if I didn't love the purpose of what God has given to me I wouldn't be doing this today and it's only because love equals sacrifice I have to sacrifice who I am for God that means everything concerning I was has to be gone and it has to be shown which means that is why I'm doing this video and I really want to explain in detail how I was able to change from living in conflict to finding a change within the conflict and now living without conflict and it first begins with the past which equals I which equals conflict this is the past, I, conflict I was born on the 9th of the 11th, 1988 I have a wonderful mother and a wonderful father who raised me and my twin brother and my brothers and sisters in a very small flat.

And we lived a very normal childhood, you know. It was really okay. It was really, you know, very loving, caring kind. But along those lines' things changed and it wasn't to do with us as, you know, it wasn't to do with the children, like me and my brothers and sisters. It was more to do with what my parents were going through. At the time, obviously we're young babies. We don't understand, you know, life and, you know, what happens in the world and, you know, what things arise is when you're raising a family and you're trying to hold into a relationship. And a lot of things happened in my parents' marriage. And because of certain changes within the marriage, my life sorry, it's very hard to say because it's still personal to me to this day. My parents had a divorce and I was only around four at the time and this was the first ever conflict I experienced which was, I'll name it, called separation. The reason why it was so difficult is because I was very close to my dad and, you know, we were always together and, you know, to go through a separation of not being with your father. Of course, I love my mum, of course I love my father but I was very close to my dad and that really, really had a damaging effect on me as a person. That was the first conflict I ever experienced and it was the first time I felt anger, anger. I just started to become very angry and bitter and you know I hated the world and I hated what was going on and I hated you know certain situations. I hated that I wasn't around my father. I hated that you know my mom was single with all her kids so I just didn't like the situation and because I was so young, I took it out in the world.

I was only like four years old at the time and I took out my anger and frustration and pain in all different ways. I became very violent towards people in schools and nurseries and you know primary schools I was a very violent child. I was a very you know I didn't take shit from anyone and it was mainly because of this conflict that I was feeling inside which was the hurt and the pain of not being close with my father and I don't blame my parents for what their decision was that's down to them. I blame myself at that time because I was too young to understand what was going on. I never knew any better so instead of me as a human being finding out what was going on the conflict was building inside of me and it really stayed with me for a long time and of course you know my mom she raised her children you know there was five of us and you One was going through struggle, so much struggle and trying to raise the kids by herself with no father around and that was the second conflict that I felt which was seeing someone I love being hurt and being in pain and being in struggle and it was very hard, very hard to watch your you know your mother working so hard for so little trying her best you know to raise all her children and she's going through the ultimate life challenge and these things just made me very angry I was very angry when I was younger and those two things were the first conflicts that I experienced so it was separation and loss and hurt and loss and I was only four years old at the time and you know.

Chapter 2 - Imperfection - (The Past) I = Conflicts (Part 2)

Right, so in the past, since I had the separation and loss, when I was only four, this conflict inside of me built and the anger and pain I was feeling actually went into my social life, which means it was a part of my school education and also my environment of how I was living and interacting with people. So, the conflict of that separation and loss of how it affected me personally entered into my school life and as a young child, you know, I was very creative. I always had a passion for creating things, whether it was art or designs or pictures or images, you know, I was one of those sorts of kids. I never was really an academic child. I never was really a child that, you know, was into books and you have to read this and you have to study that.

I was more of the artist, creative type of child. And, you know, when I was younger, that's all I really wanted to do. And it was weird that, you know, when I was four, because of that conflict of the anger and loss, I found a way to channel it at that time, which was creating things. And I used to create art, a lot of art and designs and a lot of characters and feelings towards what I was feeling. Because I was so young, I couldn't express it at the time, but I could create it. I could make a picture that showed, you know, what I was feeling or I could write something that was a part of what I was feeling. And that's the way I dealt with it for a while. The weird thing is, I never knew that, you know, creating was a passion of mine because I was only young. I didn't know that was part of who I was. But because I didn't know that was part of who I was, and I was still in conflict, conflict. In school I had to suffer which is the third thing I experienced in conflict. The suffering of people telling you you're dumb and people telling you you're dyslexic and you're stupid and you just don't fit in and you are just a retard and you know you don't have no skills comparing me to other sort of people and you know since I was four in my early school life I had to get so much abuse from people verbally physically which was basically bullying and I was always being compared to you know my twin brother which was much more academically smarter than I was and you know much more popular than I was so I was always looked at as the reject. I was always looked at as scum, I was always looked at as you know someone that's it's not worth anything and living with that every day in your school life the one place where you're meant to be finding who you are as a person you know you're meant to be creating or you're meant to be you know being helped by the teachers you can encourage you to find your passion and for me school life was the complete opposite it just wasn't like that whatsoever it was complete hell and I never learned a thing in school I never learned anything all I learned in school is that I was being controlled and there was no way out of it and I was being controlled by doing something I didn't want to do I was being controlled by people telling me I'm something come not I was being controlled by not having any idea of the whole environment of education and what it means because I thought it was I thought it was meant to be about helping people find who they are and the teachers you know help those people to find who they are and in education there are some teachers that are specifically like that which is what you know teachers should be doing helping people to find who they are but for me in me in my personal academic life it was just never like that I never found one teacher that helped me to really harness my creativity and that was the biggest to me probably the biggest downfall I had when I was younger I never had the opportunity to show my creative side and you know I have everything that was probably the biggest conflict because I was studying things I had no interest I was in classes with people I didn't like I was in an environment that wasn't a part of who I was and all these conflicts it just really got to me as a person and that same anger that I had from the separation and loss it grew even more because I was angrier and more upset and more hurt with the current situation I was in and that was my third conflict that I experienced so after the school life the ages between from four to around 10 and 11, my mum moved me, my brothers and sisters to tooting and that's where I'm from, that's who I am. I'm from tooting, we moved to Rame Close off Church Lane

which is in tooting Broadway and this was a ghetto estate I'll call it or the estate of I would say the streets, the hood, the slums and the ghettos all in one and strangely enough this is where I was brought up you know this is the place I had to live and to be honest this is where the past of conflict becomes very extreme of what conflict is this is the real essence of where all my conflict began right so when I was around I don't know specifically what age I was young at the time due to my young age of conflicts that I was living in as I said it grew in my character it built up for many years so the anger that I felt through a separation and the hurt and the loss and all the things I experienced in the past it became a part of who I was so I became angry I became violent I became abusive I became insecure I became all these things that were negative I did a lot of things because of this conflict first thing I used to do when I was younger was number one I was very violent very violent and very abusive to people because of the conflict that I lived in because of the anger that I had inside of me, and I took it out on people that I know. Random strangers, I used to rob them, beat them up, take their money, take their clothes, take their chains, take whatever possessions they had, because I thought that was good. I thought this is how life should be. Now I can take out all my frustration on people and there's going to be no consequences to my actions. So, I used to have lots of girls. I used to sleep with lots of girls for no reason. I used to just smoke weed every day for no reason. I used to just chill at the park all day for no reason. All these things that were just corruptive and to be honest, pointless, completely pointless. Now I look back at it. It was just a waste of time and a waste of life.

At the time, that's what living was about in the ghetto, making a lot of money, getting the nicest girls or the girls having the nicest guy, flossing, dressing nice, all this materialistic lifestyle. I got caught up in that and that was the ultimate conflict.

Just cutting it short in my time of tooting. I met a lot of people. There's a lot of people that I grew up with, loads of people. I rekindled my passion for creativity because when I was living with my mum,

I used to draw again. I rethought that creative side of me, which was art, creating and also music. And I started to listen to lots of music when I was younger at the time. Back in those days, it was Grime days, so it was all about the Grime, the hard, hard, Grime hip hop sort of music, and that's what I grew up of, like a Dizzie Rascal and Wiley and all these other major artists.

And because of this, I felt passionate for music, and it was part of me growing up in the estates. I would observe and jam with my friends and chill in, and we have MC battles and stuff like that, and it was good. Those were the positive things about the past, even though it was all living in conflict, there was still some sort of love for everyone, there was love for just being young, and that's not a bad thing. And I think the things that I took from my past was that passion.

I didn't know what it was, I just knew every time it was something to do with creative things, I felt better. And it did help the conflict to ease, but still there was a burning conflict inside of me that never went away. So, as you know, growing up in the hood, going through these different stages and stuff, you know, you observe, you learn different things. And this is where life for me goes completely downhill of conflict. And this is where I'll call it the lifestyle of conflict becomes in.

Chapter 3 - Imperfection - (The Past) I = Conflicts (Part 3)

Right so when I was younger I had many girls in my time you know I'm not to brag I'm not trying to brag I just I had a lot of girls in my time I always had a lot of ladies it was never a problem for me to have women or girls or people that I was attractive because I don't know people just thought I was a sweet guy but even though I looked like a sweet guy I had a very hood mentality so it was very you know that's what they lacked you know someone that looked sweet but had to fuck in them and that's what I was and the sort of the first romantic relationships but the first one I really remember was someone close I won't say their name but it was a good relationship and you know sort of the first time I saw what a relationship was and it was in within two in you know within their states and stuff and it was a good relationship you know we had ups and downs and stuff like that then I experienced the conflict again which was I would say love and loss because it was due to people getting involved in the relationship and stuff like that which I believe broke up the relationship and you know that person at the time when she broke up with me it was very hard to deal with because you know I actually did love this person and you know you know I would say love in the sense of being with her for a while and it was sort of my first sort of experience of being in a proper relationship I was only young but it felt right you know and because of that experience of loss which I felt previously due to my parent's situation it brought a new level of conflict and it made me more bitter and anger and you know that same feeling of the conflict I had before was still buried inside of me and it made me worse this time so instead of me finding out why they'll always fill this conflict. Um, I Basically took out in the world. I know so I went back to my old ways not learning from my mistakes not learning about the things that I did in the past. So, I kept on robbing people. I kept on being violent I kept on being abuses to people. I kept on Doing things that were wrong. I kept on being negative. I kept on Swearing at people for no reason. I kept on doing all the negative things you can think of I was I was I was that was me Completely, I'm not proud of my past whatsoever. I was completely negative. That's exactly who I was and It's because at the time it was the only way I could do with the hurt So then that relationship went by and Then I met a real relationship that a relationship that changed my whole life Not for the better, not for the good what I say for the worse and I think This is where conflicts become the reality of karma because of all the years.

I was younger and I had a Completely negative last completely negative. There's no Essence of positive in it whatsoever. This is when the tables turn. This is when You live in so much conflict with yourself and what you do to others that God has to punish you He has to make you see your actions for what you are doing and you become person of complete Destruction and evil and this is where Conflict needs to be confronted and the only way God can do that to show you all the wrong and the mistakes that you're doing It's when he does the ultimate life lesson and this is what happened to me personally so the first thing of what happened in this dramatic karma I would call it dramatic karma was since all the negativity I did to other people as well as myself I had an another relationship with a person that I wouldn't I wouldn't say I loved no it was just a lush of she was okay she was nice and you know I just wanted because I had the young mentality I just wanted to have fun you know it wasn't about anything more than that to be honest and to be truthful and this is where not understanding conflict becomes complicated so I won't say the person's name the person was very older than me and you know they probably knew more than I did I was too young at the time and I was just one of those hood guys that had fun did a lot of street crime and that was it really and violence and stuff like that nothing to be proud about nothing to go wow I'm a hood guy I'm gangster that that stupid is completely stupid so one thing led to another we had fun I would say and then obviously I found out this person she became pregnant and for the first time in my life only being probably younger about younger than 15 at the time reality hit me you know true reality of life of wow now I'm responsible now. I'm responsible for a situation that I created and to be honest with you I wasn't ever responsible for anything I did in the past I was never responsible I didn't even care what I was doing in the past I didn't even care that I was hurting people I didn't even care that I was causing all this conflict I didn't even care that I was hurting myself I didn't even care that you know I was destroying everything around me because I wasn't aware of it I didn't understand it I didn't know what was going on so when this bombshell hits it was two things happen one it was a revolution because for the first time I felt what love of true joy was because all my life I just felt a negativity so for the first time you know something completely positive was happening so it's quite a really sacred enjoyment just to know that wow something pure is about to come the other side of it was fear the fear of oh my god what the hell have I gotten myself into and you know the fear of how am I going to handle this responsibility in the fear of I'm only you know young like how am I going to deal with this change and you know all this played along all this was part of the conflict also because of the thoughts that I was having and you know this is where life gets hard and this is where life really goes to a next level of conflict right because I had a good person a good friend of mine he well I would have said he was like family to me at that time but things change you know people change things change and when people have jealousy which is a conflict envy which is a conflict hate which is a conflict they change and the situation with what happened

I'll try and cut as short as possible is a friend I had he wanted the person that I was with you know he wanted the girl that was potentially going to be my baby mother and he was doing whatever it took which I find it very evil today to try to break the relationship with me and her for his own game which is very selfish and very wrong which is also a conflict and when that happens it really made the situation complicated so for me I'm in the middle of this my best friends betray me and also the girl the girl that obviously off that is my going to be my baby mother she's having doubts because of you know the situation of what my friend betray me is saying so I'm in the middle of both conflicts I'm trying to be the best you know person for my girlfriend at the time but also I'm handing in with this ultimate confrontation of someone just trying to destroy everything that I'm trying to change into which is you know the love the family you know a revolution of trying to live a better life and someone evil is trying to destroy that and cut a long story short what happened in the end was I got betrayed so that was that was the conflict that I had dishonour was the conflict and disrespect was a conflict which happened all happened at this time and because of I call him basically after smile but angry this being this on being this disloyal and dishonouring me in front of my face at the time to try and woo over the girlfriend at the time just for his own selfish desires completely changed me and I went back to how I used to be which was the anger the violence the hate the just wanting to attack everything that was trying to make me feel this way and a fight broke out and yeah fight even though I did nothing wrong even though I never betray even though you know I never did anything wrong I went I had to go to prison because of that fight and not for prisoners in a sentence just for a cell for a few nights but this incident changed my whole life because at that period where my friend betrayed me and my girlfriend at the time when she was still pregnant I was in jail so I'm not around the estate to find out what's going on and to know the ins and outs of how things are I can't even use a phone for goodness sake so then what happened was while I was in prison I don't know what happened to this day this is something I've never I've never known it's something I really don't know. When I was in the cells and I came out of cells after. So, when I got out of the cells and I was back into it, I could never forget this moment. This moment is, is probably the one thing I've, I've lived with all my life. So, when I got out of prison and obviously, I went back to the estate, you know, I was like, you know, I'm all thinking in my mind, you know, I'm going to be a father. I'm going to have a kid on the way. You know, I told him my family, my mom, my dad, my twins, my brothers and sisters, my man, you know, my whole family knew. And this is where my life changed forever. This is when I don't know what happened. My life just changed. And I do call this point karma of conflict, karma of when you do bad in the world, it comes back. It comes back to you in a way that you'll never imagine. And the one thing you want the most goes from you. And this is what really gets to me. And this is what really happened. So, I went to the, I went back on the estate and I met a friend that I can't remember who it was. But I can't forget this moment. I went to the estate and one of my friends basically stated, oh, you know that girl that he was with family was like, yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah. Oh, you know, you know, the ends are saying, yeah, like, you know, she had an abortion, you know, family was in prison, but I know it's crazy. It's deep, man. It's deep shit. Oh, my days, man, deep man and that's where that's when my life just changed I don't know if you ever would feel like a part of you just died that's exactly what that felt like it felt like everything you wanted in life was gone in an instant and you just felt completely gone you didn't even do your mind and your body didn't even feel like it was here it felt like something you loved so much something that you wanted so much something that you needed so much was taken away from you and I just remember going to I was outside at the time I remember just going on my knees and just feeling the ultimate pain which was part of a conflict hurt which was conflict sorrow guilt mistakes torture all in one and loss all in one and to be going to see you that's probably the darkest moment I've ever lived in my life ever nothing there's no experience that's come close to me than that the ultimate loss when you lose your children that is the ultimate loss and there's no amount of anything that can heal that pain and that is what I lived with at that time and I was only 15 at the time and even today it's like it's just the ultimate pain you know and this is where new levels of conflict because of this because of going through this experience of now I have to live with the fact that my children I was meant to be a father and someone took my children away from me without my permission and I was helpless to do anything and I do believe to this day it was due to the karma of my actions, and I still believe to this day that was the reason why. Well, that's what I thought, and when you go through something like that, there's only two things that can happen.

Chapter 4 - Imperfection - (The Past) I = Conflicts (Part 4)

So, when you go through something like that, there's only two things that can happen. One is you basically become dead, and the other is you take out your anger, frustration, your pain, your hurt, your loss on the world you know. And instead of me just dying, I did the opposite. I was angrier than ever. I was more in conflict than ever. I was more frustrated than ever because I just suffered the ultimate loss, which was losing my children. So, this is where things get deep. So, I'm still in between the streets. I'm still grinding, hustling and doing all these things, you know. And you know, I was into a few gangs. I wouldn't say there was a name for the gangs. I'll just say I was a part of that culture of either a gang member or a gang banger. You know, I was a gang banger, which basically means you're active. A gang member just means you just roll with people that are just gang bangers in the sense of, you know, they just affiliate with them. I wasn't, I'm not in that category. I was actually doing things on the street's day to day, year to year, month to month. So, you know, that was part of my character. That's who I was. I'm not proud of my past. I never have been. I'm not proud of who I used to be. I'm not proud of the actions that I did. But the whole essence is I'm trying to show you what conflict is. And using my life as an example of why conflict is so destructive.

So, as I continue. And then, yeah, obviously, you know, because of that loss, I became in sorrow, hurt, pain, guilt. Went through a whole different way of experiences. And due to the violence of what I was doing on the streets, I nearly suffered. My first, this is a conflict of a near death experience. This was due to the fact of being at the wrong place at the wrong time. What happened in short was I had a running into another member of gangs and a fight broke out and it got very hectic and I nearly beat up someone very severely and they nearly beat me up very severely and to the point of yeah I could have passed and that was part of the near -death experience conflict at that specific time and I think what happened to me was when I was 15 seeing all that conflict that I did as well as what I experienced and the conflict that others did and the loss that I just experienced I had to find a way out, I had to find a way to get past everything that I was feeling at that time. So what I did was there was another conflict where I was having problems at home with my mum because of my behaviour on the streets and a lot of people will be saying your son is very destructive, your son is doing a lot of wrong I keep hearing him in these fights and these wars with other people I keep hearing him doing these activities of crime and obviously my mum being my mum she cares and loves me she's trying to protect me but she doesn't like hearing that her son is always out doing mischief So of course we're going to have arguments and we had so many arguments to the point of I decided it was just best for me to move Two things happened at this stage which is part of also a conflict One, I lost security So I wasn't secure anymore, no one was looking after me in the sense of, I just suffered that ultimate loss of losing my children. And my mom, obviously, and my family was sort of that protective cover that will always look after you and your goods and your bags. And when I decided to move home, I lost that shelter of, you can always come back to this. And I was all alone for the first time in my life. I was all alone with everything I experienced at the age between four and 15. And everything that I've done and every experience that I lived and went past, you know, and so then I moved up. Then this is where conflict comes more. So, I moved out when I was 15 years old. I moved out from my mother's home in Tooting. I mean, I moved to a hostel just up the road from Tooting, but more in Samuel Johnson. And this is where the next level of conflict comes in, which is now the reality of conflict, I'll call it. The true reality of conflict. So, when I moved out of home, I was homeless. Yeah, I was homeless. I was completely homeless. I had nowhere to stay. I was sleeping on park benches and I was eating the garbage that people would leave behind on the sidewalk. I don't know what homeless is to offer people, but I was homeless. And my clothes were in black bags and I was sleeping on these park benches and stuff like that. And until you've really understood what conflict is, you just don't understand the whole essence of all the conflict. It's very destructive. And obviously, when I was homeless and I was still having my... Obviously, first you have these physical conflicts of being outside alone and there's no support or security. Then you have your inner conflicts, which are much more damaging. So, I had both at the same time. So, when I moved into the hostel, eventually after a few... Luckily for me a few weeks of being homeless on the streets, the reality kicked in. But something happened. I met someone along my path which I never expected.

I met someone that, you know, was a proper genuine little nice person. And the thing of what happened there was, this is another conflict.

I was in lust of the person. I wasn't in super love in the sense of... I was in complete lust of her being. She was very beautiful, very pretty, very amazing. And it was a complete list of that that drawled me into really being with her. But the good thing about that lust was it built into a normal level of love. Because it was the first real time I experienced, you know, a connection with a person without conflict. Because it wasn't a conflict really when it connected. It was just about a lust. And the reason why I was very close to this person was the loyalty. A very, very low person. And this person was so low to me that...Even though I was going through what I'd say is the worst experience of my life when I was in the hostel. hospital when I to be honest I'll put my hands up I had the ultimate Confrontation with conflict which was I suffered the ultimate depression because of the loss of my kids and the reality of all the actions I did and the guilt and the regrets and the pain and I also had a major breakdown because I was just completely lost in my sorrow and pain and hurt and life you know and in the hostel that's where everything came to me like a ton of bricks that just fell on me and you know I was all alone and you know this is the one person that was there when no one else was and that is why I stay in the sense of the loyalty I loved her loyalty her loyalty was very low I didn't love her as a person because when it started it was lost it wasn't true love it was the loyalty of the person and obviously in the hostel because of all this conflict and I couldn't take the pain and I couldn't take everything that was going on another conflict came and this conflict was I tried to I tried to commit suicide because I couldn't take the pain I couldn't take the guilt I couldn't take the loss I couldn't take all of these things that was destroying my life so I tried to take my life more than once at a time and I thought I was the only way I can get past this feeling so because of that my life went completely downhill and this is where conflict gets extreme so from I'll say from when I was 15 when I was about 19 - 18 I went I was in and out of hospital I was in Springfield Hospital because I suffered with Psychosis and depression, mental health so it's I was actually in there because of my illness. And the one thing I learnt was when you get to a place of completely destroyed and there's no hope of your character being, you know, you just become lost. And that's where it was. I was just lost in this conflict and I just didn't see a way out. And the hardest thing for me to deal with at that time was I took it out on everybody.

I took it out on my family. I took it out on my relationship with the girl that I just spoke about. I took it out on everyone that I know. And I had conflicts from family at that. And when you're dealing with your own personal problems as well as having conflict as well, with your own family, where they're the ones that's meant to actually be supporting you and guiding you, and actually bringing you down more because they're trying to show you your failures and your flaws and your weak and why you're here and you're a nutcase and you have no real character. You're just a lost soul. And you're trying to recover. You're trying to heal yourself. That's very damaging. And that's what happened to me. That's how my life was. So, for many years I suffered with depression. Many years. And deep depression, not just little depression, deep depression. And in the relationship that I was with this person because of my own conflicts, which I now understand why I did certain actions in the relationship, I was a cheater. cheater. I cheated. Cheated many times. I was very violent, very aggressive. I always wanted things my way. I never cared about her feelings. I was always focused on "I, I, I, I" and I never took the time out to understand that there's someone else that I should be dedicating my time to but because I was so wrapped up in my conflicts that's why that relationship ended and it's because of my actions, nothing to do with the person because of who I was, because I didn't know who I was at the time and after like five years of being in a relationship it broke up and...

Chapter 5 - Imperfection - (The Present) Unknown = Change & Choice (Part 5)

Hi everyone, this is Reckyz Rose, SGR star legend We're now talking about the imperfection This part is the present and the present stands for Unknown which equals change and choice, right? So once my girlfriend left me in the hostel What happened was I was all alone in the hostel So I lost everything and I went through a stage of discovering who I was The loss of that breakup is due to my actions, but what happened was it made me very So, upset bitter angry hurt and pain and I Wasn't some sort of lost state for a long period of time at that point in my life, I lost everything that I really cared about. I was unemployed I lost my girlfriend and also You know, it was just a major crisis in life. Um, so what happened was Basically during that period of 18 no, I think it was 18 or 14. No about 18, I would say or maybe before that I was just in a state of depression and this is where the unknown comes and this is when a change in a trance comes in So basically due to the loss of that relationship I was in a sort of isolation mode, which is a part of a conflict also, but um, what happened was is that I started to go through a transformation in the present and You know, even though, you know, you just suffered your ultimate loss. You started to develop new skills and new abilities and new things which was part of a change that he wasn't aware of but I think what happened for me was it was due to that that change I made previous and the choice was that I'm going to try and better my life in a positive way without trying not to affect as many more people as I can you know I'm going to try and change my life for the better so what happened after that breakup a few things happened I went back into the working environment so I'm going to call this part the social environment and I changed as a person because I was much more stronger much more adaptable to more challenges I was much more able to handle loss than I did before but then I was still a part of me that was a bit hurt and in pain so obviously due to going through that loss I've got just the relationship of all the other things that hurts and the pains this change was slowly awakening and I went into I worked in so many different jobs and I'll talk about this very briefly basically in the working environment very controlled you don't really have much choice to do anything for example you know I worked a lot of nine to five jobs I worked a lot of jobs that were just destroying my whole character personality who I was as a person and you know from job to job from wait pay check to pay check from month to month from week to week from year to year I was finding that I was still unemployed I was finding that I was still struggling I was finding that you know there's a lot of competition status you know bragging rights and all these other things that are part of the corporate world, you know, the corporate environment, you know, in a job you have to be very aggressive and be everyone to get to the top and, you know, very competition, very ambitious, destructive sort of behaviour. And I think as I was going through the present, this was part of the change. And I learned a lot along that sort of working environment of how it was. And I learned that basically number one, people do whatever it takes to make money. Don't care if you're a happy person, a negative person, a good person, a bad person, money's money in their eyes. They're only concerned about getting rich and getting money. And also, the management are like that as well. They only care about, you know, making lots of money, getting rich. Everyone else that's below the corporate structure doesn't really matter because they don't own it. So, you know, you see all these things and you think, wow, okay, I'm part of that. I don't know, something just changed in me. You know, working lots of different jobs and seeing lots of different things. I learned that, you know, there's got to be a different way to, you know, actually make a living and also, you know, a different way of living than just these nine to five competitions, aggressive behaviour, ambitious behaviour, selfishness, greed, envy, you know, all these things that are part of a corporate environment of whatever industry or job you in, it doesn't matter. So long as it's based on those principles, which most corporate companies are, unless they have true morals, values and principles and purpose, then it's very hard to work for a company that isn't really about trying to these nine to five competitions make the world a better place. It's more about just greed, which is basically money. That's the reality of it. It's not about anything else but just the money. And I learned a long time ago that something was wrong here. I got fired from a lot of jobs for no reason. I was made redundant about 20 times. I lost a lot of jobs along the way. And each time these changes happened to me in a social environment, it woke me up gradually. So, in the present, I made a choice. I made a choice that was very, very serious. And this choice was based on what happened in my past. It was based on the fact that because I went through those conflicts and I lost my children mainly, I had to change. Something had to change. I didn't know what it was. I didn't know why I wanted to change. I didn't know what the purpose was, but I just knew that, you know, if I don't make a change now and do something at that specific time, you know, things will stay the same. And that was the choice that I made. The choice that I made was to find what my passion is and follow my passion. And what happened was, going through those social environments, it's weird. Basically, I actually, the way I found my passion was, and it's in this unknown stage of changing trust, is that I was actually just in my flat and, you know, I was all alone. And I was still feeling a bit of hurt towards life and society and, you know, the losses and the breakup and, you know, also myself and my guilt and my mistakes. I wanted to express it in some way. I wanted to express, you know, why am I feeling like this or, you know, why is my body reacting to these changes? So, what happened for me, and what I told you back in the past was, obviously, I was creating since I was four, right? So, I've always been creating something. and what happened was is when the revolution of God happened it basically what happened was I was in my flat and I just sat down on the floor and I just wrote something I've got a piece of paper and I think the first song I ever read was called Power and Pain because it was quite an odd situation it was I think the reason why I wrote that song was because it showed what happened to me it showed the change from the pain of everything that I experienced in that past to a power of change and choice of being free from that pain and I think that was the first song I ever remember writing actually on a piece of paper and from that moment it changed my life because what I learned from that change and that conscious decision to just sit there and write whether it's right or wrong whether it was good and bad it re-harnessed that creativity that I had when I was four when I was designing and making comics and stuff and what I realized was it's because I made that choice and I chose to just follow my heart and my intuition and my mind my body and soul and that's what happened and without me listening to my heart and my consciousness I would have never actually be doing anything towards creativity now I wouldn't even be on the camera right now so I had to basically change and I had to make a choice and without that change and without that choice I wouldn't be here today I wouldn't be doing this right now and I wouldn't be trying to spread love and peace to the world as well as sharing my passion for creativity and that's the main ultimate change that happened and obviously because I rethought that passion of true sacred love for something it just grew it just it just grew and grew and grew and grew and grew and grew and the more I did this creating things the better it got the better I got the more aware I was as a person the more it was helping develop me as a human being the more that I felt this is what God wanted me to do I felt like this was the thing that really shows who I am as a person and this is going to somehow change the world for the better and I knew if I kept on creating things and I kept on making things that had value meaning purpose morals and principles that eventually one day the world will see it and I didn't know why at the time but the essence of what happened for my creativity at that point was loss about me losing everything and beginning again as a starter basically starting from nothing I would have never found the true sacred creativity and will never be a creator now and I think that was part of a change in a choice and then what happened through that revolution of finding the creative side that I always was from day one I just never understood it I met and this is where my life really just changes for the absolute miracle so in the present right so in wow, this is something I've been wanting to say for a while, so in the present, after I found that I had a passion for creating, you know, a true desire, love, joy, peace, sacred feeling for creating things, it's quite weird.

I was creating music at the beginning and I was working in a specific place in Selfridges at this time. It's weird because I did music before that period of time, it's just at that time I was actively uploading some sort of music or writing and it was the passion for music as well as creativity was slowly coming to life. And at Selfridges, you know, I met a few people but there was one person that this change in this dress completely changed my life forever. And I would say this person, I don't want to say her real name but because of this person, my life changed for the better, completely changed for the better. But in a way that I would have never imagined, I never would have imagined that you could find someone that's not just your soul mate but your twin flame, someone that you're actually connected with spiritually and you were always meant to meet that person eventually. And I met her, I met the love of my life and the person that I was meant to actually meet in my lifetime in Selfridges. And if it wasn't for me working in Selfridges, I would have never met this person. And it's quite weird how the story changes, but I keep listening. So, I met this person. It's weird. This person just came randomly, you know. I never expected that. I wasn't looking for someone to, you know, I wasn't looking for someone in the sense of, you know, this is the girl and I believe it's going to be the girl for the rest of my life. Its just God brought this person here. And it was quite a random occasion. What happened was that as soon as I saw this person, right, spiritual connection came, which I never had before, it was something that was intuition, something from the heart, something that, you know, you can't describe in words, something that God probably made you feel for a reason. And all I remember was, as soon as I saw this person, that life just changed. I just felt this enjoyment and love and peace and happiness and true loveliness and just kindness and care all in one. And I kept saying to my workmate, I was like, who's this person? Who's this person? Who is she? Who is she? I didn't understand that at that time. I didn't understand, like, why was I feeling like this? Why would some random stranger make you feel a certain way you never ever felt before? And what happened was,

I think, what that feeling was understand, like, it was the intuition of this is the person. You know, this is the one. This is the person you're meant to share the rest of your life with. This is your soulmate. This is your twin flame. And this is the person you're meant to be with in this lifetime. And it's quite deep to say that, but it is the truth. And funnily enough, that same feeling what happened was, eventually me and this person connected. Because it was destiny, it was going to happen, regardless whether she knew it or I knew it. It was a destiny feeling that had to happen because God put us in that situation, specifically for us to meet at that specific time, at that specific year, at that specific time of our life. And that's where everything changed. And I think everything changed not just for me, but for the person as well. And I think that's the first time that I experienced what's sacred and unconditional love, which basically means a love that can never be broken, a love that can never be replaced, a love that is so holy that you just can't experience it again. Something that lives on beyond time. Something that no one can give to you. It's something that you only have it once. You only meet this person once in your life. Anything before this person doesn't matter. It's just this person or this love that you have for this person. It's the ultimate feeling. It's the feeling of true sacredness. And when you have this feeling, it changes everything. And what happened was, because I met this person, right? Because I met this person, right, that's when everything changed.

And that's why now I'm doing everything you see on the camera. Because I'll just say it straight. I can't say if it wasn't for Bumtzz there's no way I could be me. There's no way I could have changed. And there's no way I could have made the choice of being a creator without the fear. And it's because of Bumtzz that life has changed. changed and the reason for that is because She was the person that had the sacred love of what I've never experienced and she's never experienced and when two people are destined to be together come as one even for a short period of time It changes everything and for the present that was the change for me. That was the ultimate change finding the person that is my soulmate and my twin flame That's what changed me completely. That's what changed the past Completely everything that happened in the past was gone away. All that matter was the unconditional love I had for this person and unconditional sacred feeling we had and it changed my life and that's why as soon as I met her, you know, I stopped drinking I stopped having any negativity towards things I Stop all the negativity like violence and stuff. I Stop smoking All the things that you would normally do I did it and completely changed my life and it's because I met her and that's what the unknown thing was this in life. Sometimes you can't Know what's going to happen? You can't put you can't you can't actually Figure it out. The only thing you can do in the present is affect it you can affect the present which means you your actions and What do you think and what you do in the way you behave in the way you? Carry yourself affects the present So if I didn't follow certain changes that I was feeling as a person and made certain choices and acted on it I would have never changed. I wouldn't have known what changes I wouldn't have known what making the choices. And the one thing about the present I was saying before I finish is that as humans, we all have the ability to make the world a better place. And it's our responsibility to help everyone that we get in contact with in some way be a better person. Whether it's through your arts, through your education, through your knowledge, through your wisdom, through your abilities, through your skills, through your talents, you need to make the world a better place because it's not just about you. It's about a change. It's about a choice. It's about finding something that you don't know and being prepared to go through the journey. And I think what I learned in the present is that you have the effect.

You can affect your present in any way you choose. You have the choice and you have the power to make a difference, not just for yourself, not just for the universe, not just for the animals, but also for the wealth, for any person you're in contact with. And I think that's the power of the present is that you can affect it.

You can make a choice today to go, you know what? I don't want to live in conflict. You know what? I want to help people. You know what? I want to stop violence. You know what? I want to stop crime.

You know what? I want to try to protect animals. You know what? I want to try and help the universe be a better place. You have the choice and you've always had the choice.

It's just we never understood how powerful making a decision is. And that's why the present is so important to me is because there's certain choices based on the moral values and principles that I had.

If I wasn't with Buntzz, or if I never met her, then I'll never be myself. I'll never be who I am. And I think that's what the importance is, is finding that, you know, change. And without making that choice, you can never change. That's the truth. So, you can affect the present and you have the choice. So, make the right decisions for you, your family, humanity and the world become a better place.

Chapter 6 - Imperfection = Perfection (The Future) No I = No Conflicts (Part 6)

Hi everyone, this is Reckyz Rose, Star Legend, SGR. This is the future. This is the final video. This video is about showing the people the truth. Right, this is what we have to do. Once you've understood the past and the present, the future basically means no I, which basically means no yourself. In order to be perfection, which basically means imperfection equals perfection, you must understand your past, you must understand the present, and you must understand the future. The only way, as humanity, that we can get into our perfection self, which is the revolution of all humanity, is if we understand our imperfection. To understand your imperfection, you must understand the good and the bad. You must understand all of your experiences that you've lived. You must understand what conflict is and how it's affected your day -to -day life. And it's very important that we now understand that this is the time that we all need to really focus on this. Every single person, men, women, children, we must take the time to focus on this cause, because it's a cause of consciousness. Right, so what we need to do is imperfection equals perfection. The way to get to perfection is a process. The process is the past, which I equal conflict, which basically means understanding your conflicts, understanding the things that have damaged you, the hurts, the pains, the losses, the guilt, the mistakes, the attachments, all of these things. Understanding how it's affected your day -to -day in your life. Completely, just by seeing it for what it is, not having an image about it, seeing exactly what the conflict done. From the past, you see the present, which is a change and choice. This is the hardest thing for people. Once you've understood your conflicts completely, which means you understand it completely without no hiding no running away from the truth you see it for exactly where it is the present is the hardest thing and you can affect it you have a choice and you have a change this is what stopping humanity getting to perfection is because in the present they don't understand they have to make a choice and they have to make a change right for example with me if I didn't understand my past which I explained to you if I in the present didn't make a change and make a choice at that pacific time I could never completely know myself and understand that there is no I and the present is the most important thing because the present is your future so to break the barrier of all conflict in life within existence in living we must now make a serious choice and change this is now about are we going to stay in conflict or are we going to free ourselves from conflict it's that simple that's exactly what it means the future is perfection the past is the imperfection but the thing is the both are one they're both connected as one it's the perfection isn't separate from the imperfection they're both one because they're both the opposites that make your complete being this is why it's very important to live with your imperfections because once you've lived with your imperfections you reach perfection and the main thing of this message is to basically state if anyone's really listening to what I'm saying understand the videos that I've made is that you can change your life from conflict into no conflict it is possible I am living proof of that I am living proof it's possible and the main essence is No, I which basically means knowing yourself which basically means completely knowing yourself a hundred percent that means there's no contradiction There's no anything that could disrupt your knowledge and wisdom of it and the truth is if we don't completely know ourselves as human beings We'll never be free We'll never have love and we'll never have peace.

So we must all now as human beings find a way to live life without conflict and the only way we can do that is to know Ourselves and this is a journey that everyone has to take by themselves but as one we can come together and sit here and Find the way to solve these conflicts all around the world, but all of our conflicts are different That is why the revolution is now and the revolution is Imperfection equals perfection we all are on this journey and we all are on this path and we now must all come together and solve this Millions and millions of millions of years in conflict once and for all because once we understand the imperfections Completely and can live with it. We then reach perfection. That means there'll be no more wars No more battalions. No more hurt. No more pain. No more loss. No more grief. No more image. No more attachments to nothing It mean you're completely a reborn person and you're completely a spiritual Perfection of self which basically means knowing yourself which basically means knowing you're a part of the whole universe Humanity animals in the universe and this is the final message the future basically means no I which means you don't exist Which basically means knowing yourself and in knowing yourself the old you are completely gone It's completely dead.

It's completely forgotten because now you're in a new place you're a completely new being you are perfection and the only way we can get to perfection is knowing ourselves a hundred percent that is the truth the only way if you can be your future self is to know yourself a hundred percent which basically means knowing the goods and knowing the beds and living with both in harmony and that's the truth so all have the coverage all have the freedom all have the love all have the peace from the past the present and future and you can do it it's now.
